TALK ON 'DON'T REMAIN YET ANOTHER ENGINEER'

By Mr. Mohammad Saqib, Sr Software Engineer, Evry India

Sep 4th 2017

A Talk on 'Don't remain Yet Another Engineer' was presented by Mr. Mohammad Saqib, Senior Software Engineer, Evry India, Bengaluru. Mr. Mohammad Saqib has a Professional experience of 5 years in complete SDLC management which involves Planning, Designing, Developing, Testing implementation and production support.

Excerpts of the Talk :

As an engineer, there's no doubt that technical prowess will carry you far. In a world increasingly focused on technology, it's important to remember that people are the ultimate drivers of innovation, so developing both yourself as well as those around you can give a significant boost to your career growth.

Always be improving : The most important skill for software engineers to have in the next ten years is continuous learning and self improvement. Given how rapidly the software space changes, learning a single technical skill today won't prepare you for the future, because there's only a slim chance that skill is actually what you'll need in the future.

Soft skills vs. Software : Don't overlook soft skills. For those caught up in deep technical projects, soft skills can seem like unnecessary niceties—but these tactics can have significant influence over how business decisions are made, who gets promoted, and other critical interactions in the workplace.

Mr. Mohammad Saqib, Evry India interacting with Students
